The Vacation Planning Guide is a reader service section located at the back of the magazine. Each ad receives a reader service number that readers can use to request information from advertisers by visiting the website VacationsMagazine.com. When a visitor to VacationsMagazine.com selects to receive information from an advertiser on the Free Travel Info page, a link to the advertiser's website will be presented as soon as the form is submitted. VacationsMagazine.com captures the contact information for the advertiser to be delivered with the next batch of leads and gives the site visitor instant access to information from the advertisers in which they are interested.

An advertiser will receive leads that include the name, address and, when provided, the verified email address of any reader who requests more information from that specific advertiser.

These leads are sent weekly in an Excel spreadsheet via email. For $100 per issue, advertisers will receive one mailed batch of printed labels after all leads have been collected.

The Vacation Planning Guide ads are formatted in house and are available in three sizes:

Plan AA: Six ads per page. Advertiser sends a 4/C image and 75 words of copy to the publisher.

Plan A: 12 ads per page. Advertiser sends a 4/C image and 30 words of copy to the publisher.

Plan B: 24 ads per page. Advertiser sends a B&W logo and 30 words of copy to the publisher.

Vacation Planning Guide Ad Materials Images and copy for the planning guide can be sent on disk or via email. Digital images are preferred. Images must be at least 300 dpi. Save images as CMYK or Grayscale. Convert RGB images to CMYK. Convert spot colors to CMYK. Include trapping. Use only EPS or TIFF files. JPEG is not supported. Publisher does not provide proofs of Vacation Planning Guide ads.
